

Consumers Energy, Community Action Agency teaming up to help residents keep warm this winter

Published: Monday, February 13, 2012, 10:05 AM

By Tarryl Jackson | tjackso1@mlive.com

File photo

JACKSON — Community Action Agency and Consumers Energy are teaming up to help residents avoid utility shut-off and other emergency situations. The nonprofit and utility will be hosting a Walk for Warmth on Feb. 24 to raise awareness about the importance of utility assistance for low-income families.

The walk will start at 11:30 a.m. at the front steps of CMS Energy's headquarters, 1 Energy Plaza, and Community Action Agency's CEO Marsha Kreucher will help kick off the event. The route will take walkers through downtown Jackson. All donations made at the event or to the Heat-A-Home campaign will provide utility help to avoid electricity shut-off, propane or assist with deliverable fuel.

For more information, call 784-4800 or visit www.caajlh.org.