Reading and Jonesville — Jonesville and Reading Head Start students got a hands-on lesson about horses Tuesday morning when they visited the River Bend Standard Bred horse farm and got a tour from owner Brett Boyd. “We enjoy having the kids out here,” Boyd said. “We love to do it. It’s fun and they learn a lot.” The children had the chance to pet many different horses, learn about racing equipment and training techniques, and even see a foal. “The kids have been really excited,” said Head Start Program Director Linda Barnett. “They’ve been looking forward to it.”
