

CAA receives grant for 200 pairs of new shoes for kids

Many families struggling with financial hardship do not have the resources to cover basic needs like the cost of new warm footwear. But, for 200 children in Community Action Agency's Head Start program, this holiday season will be a little brighter. CAA received a grant from Payless Gives™ Shoes 4 Kids which will help families shop for a new pair of shoes or boots this winter at Payless Shoe Stores. This is second year CAA has been awarded this grant, amongst hundreds of organizations across the US, Canada, Puerto Rico, & Latin America.

Director of Children's Programs at CAA Mary Cunningham-Deluca said "this initiative is a tremendous help to our young families, who are struggling to make ends meet and who might otherwise go without warm shoes this season."

The 2010 campaign distributed a total of $1.2 million dollars in coupons for new footwear. More information is available on the Payless Gives™ website at: www.paylessgives.com
